Challenges

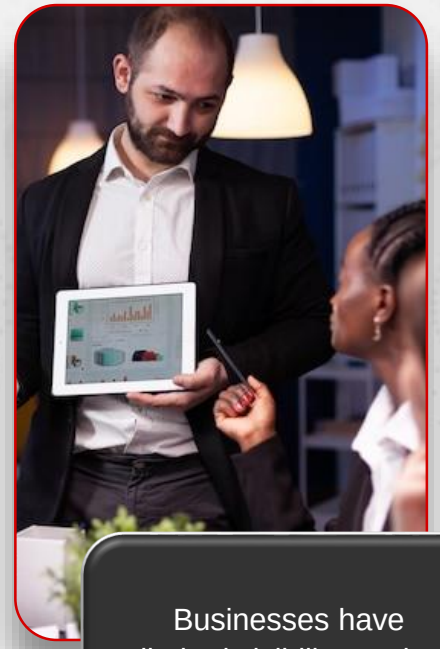

For most organisations, the Field Force are vital in building and maintaining relationships with customers and therefore communication is critical to preserve long-term relationships with existing customers or clients, but...

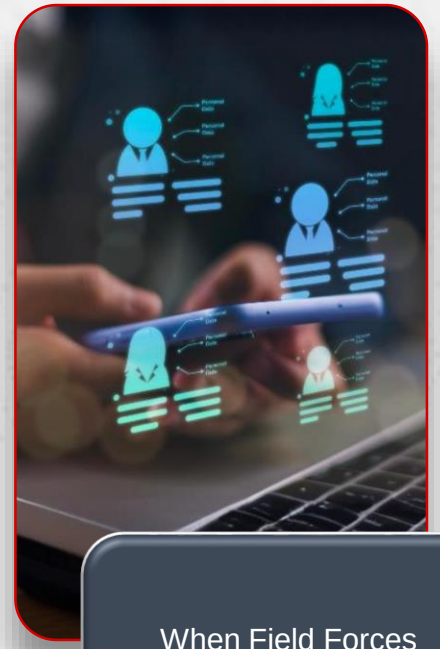

There is no enterprise grade omni-channel communication tool specifically designed for Field Forces

Field Forces often use their personal numbers to talk to the customers which create communication inconsistencies

Businesses have limited visibility on the Field Forces activities and communications with customers, making it difficult to have a holistic view

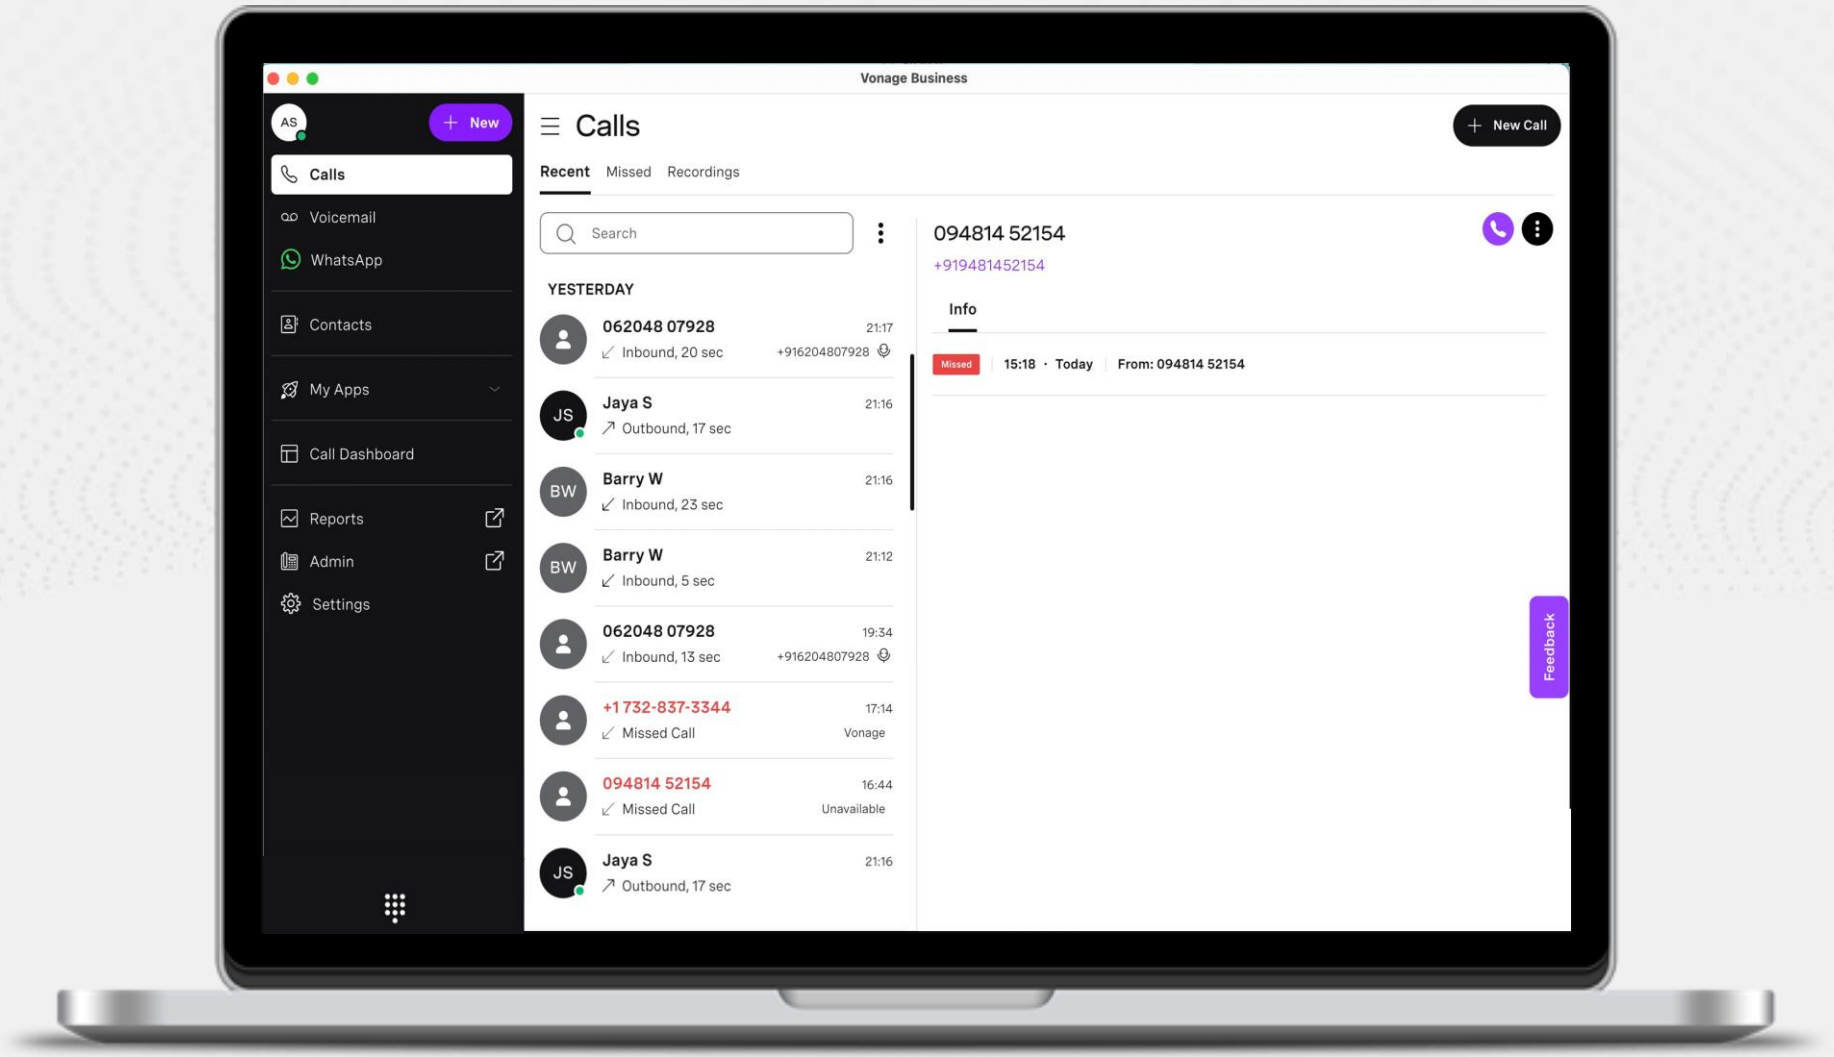

When Field Forces job hop, their numbers and customer data may go with them which may be detrimental to businesses
